John Rust Calls on Mitch McConnell to Resign Following Latest On Camera Incident
Asks Jim Banks to Join Him in Calling for New Senate Leadership

Seymour, Indiana -

Yesterday, Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell once again froze in front of the cameras during a press conference.

John Rust, Republican candidate for US Senate, spoke out in favor of new Republican leadership in the Senate.

“No one likes to see the effects old age can have. But to see it in the people leading our country is serious cause for concern. Whether Mitch McConnell, Dianne Feinstein, or Joe Biden, our country deserves leadership that is sharp and aware.

That’s why I’m asking that Jim Banks join me in calling on Mitch McConnell to resign and pledging to commit to vote for new Senate leadership if elected in 2024, if McConnell remains in office. Our nation is facing a series of critical issues such as a crumbling economy, out of control violence in our streets, and foreign threats that have placed us on the brink of WWII. We can’t afford leadership that is incapable of meeting the moment. As a political insider that’s supported by the McConnell machine, I know this will be a hard thing for Jim Banks to do. But it’s the right thing for the country.”
